It is not recommended that you drink tap water during your stay in Dakar; bottled water is readily available.

ELECTRICITY

The electricity supply in Senegal is 220 volts. Round, two-pin plugs are used to connect appliances to wall sockets. Please remember to bring the appropriate convertors for your 110 V electrical appliances.

LANGUAGES SPOKEN

The official language is French, which is spoken by a large proportion of the population. Some 10 national languages are also spoken (wolof – the most widely spoken –, sérère, diola, puular, soninké, mandingue...) and several others with a smaller spread.

SITES TO VISIT IN DAKAR AND ITS ENVIRONS

Dakar, the capital, is a delight to persons who have the great idea of staying on for longer than a stopover. Its lively markets, its vibrant nightlife, its sites steeped in history, its craft villages, but above all, its authentic fishing villages, all form a surprising kaleidoscope. Located on the westernmost tip of the African continent and facing the Atlantic Ocean, Dakar spreads out in a striking contrast of modernity and authenticity.

THE AFRICAN RENAISSANCE MONUMENT

Listed as one of the tallest in the world, the monument rises to an imposing 52 m of bronze and copper, depicting a couple and a child. From its summit, one can admire the city at 360 degrees. Against the backdrop of the setting sun, it is an imposing site.

GOREE

Located off the coast of Dakar, Gorée holds a great deal of fascination for visitors, famous and anonymous alike. It is a unique site, where the houses with their ochre and pink façades and blue shutters, conjure up the history of slavery. The House of Slaves, cradled by the lyrical narrative that accompanies it, takes you back in time. The vibrations of ghosts of the past are felt in every room, and especially in front of the “door of no return”, offering a striking contrast between the darkness of the corridor and the blue of the ocean. The visitor is further charmed by the incredible beauty of the island, a captivating blend of tranquillity and refinement, the discovery of museums and the work of local artists.
